Ethics of Emerging Infectious Diseases Workshop
Thursday 25 July
Mezzanine Room, The Peter Doherty Institute for Infection and Immunity

Time	Topic	Speaker
Session 1: Communicable disease surveillance, ethical frameworks and policy translation
Chair: Dr Chris Degeling, Australian Centre for Health Engagement, Evidence and Values, University of Wollongong and Sydney Health Ethics, University of Sydney
11:00	Using Big data for communicable disease surveillance - balancing benefits and risks	Dr Trent Yarwood Qld Health Antimicrobial Stewardship Program
11:40	What is the role of an ethics/ethical framework? One Health as example	Dr Jane Johnson Sydney Health Ethics & CREID
12:20	Translating evidence into policy? Using WHO PH surveillance ethics document as example	Prof Angus Dawson Sydney Health Ethics
13:00	Lunch
Session 2: Owning, analysing and sharing pathogen genome sequences for communicable disease surveillance and research - how and why we need to do it and what are legal, ethical and political constraints
Chair: Prof Lyn Gilbert, CREID, APPRISE and Sydney Health Ethics, University of Sydney
13:30	5-7min presentations: who owns pathogens and pathogen WGS data and why it's important?
	The laboratory perspective	A/Prof Deb Williamson MDU PHL, Doherty Institute
	The Vic Health epidemiological perspective	Marion Easton Vic Health
	The NSW Health legal perspective	Gemma Broderick NSW Health
	The genomic ethico-legal perspective	A/Prof Ainsley Newson Sydney Health Ethics
13:50	Q & A Discussion	Chair, panellists and attendees
2:30	Afternoon tea

Early to Mid-Career Researcher (EMCR) Forum

Thursday 25 July

Mezzanine Room, The Peter Doherty Institute for Infection and Immunity

Time	Topic	Facilitator
15:00	Strategies for raising your profile and creating a greater impact of your research	Dr Cameron Webb NSW Health Pathology and Marie Bashir Institute for Infectious Diseases and Biosecurity, University of Sydney
16:00	The Joint-CRE EMCR Academy – future directions	Dr Jason Kwong Austin Health and University of Melbourne